DO I NEED FIRE RETARDANT BLINDS?

If you require blinds for a non-domestic establishment or a residential home, the short answer is yes. This means that any property within the education, healthcare, hospitality and leisure sectors will need fire retardant blinds. This includes any residences where the blinds are provided by the landlord e.g. rental properties and Airbnbs. The blinds must adhere to the BS5867 regulations that state window dressings within public areas in the UK must be made of fire retardant fabric or chemically treated to be fire resistant. If you're unsure of whether your establishment falls under this bracket then our team of experts can assist in recommending the perfect blinds for you.
